

House Republicans

REAL ENERGY SOLUTIONS

Daily Fact Sheet for June 26, 2008

- Today House Democrats seem willing to leave town without taking any meaningful action to help families and small businesses struggling with skyrocketing gas prices.
- Democratic leaders have scheduled votes on three no-energy measures that do nothing to increase American energy production, reduce gas prices, or secure our energy future. Simply put, this is an insult to the American people who want more American energy, as poll after poll continues to demonstrate.
- Republicans have made it clear that Congress should not leave town without voting on meaningful solutions to increase American energy production and help lower gas prices.
- It's time for Democratic leaders to end their sham votes on "no energy" bills and agree to work with Republicans to help bring the American people the lower gas prices they deserve.
